is proud to support the ReelAbilities Film Festival
Los Angeles!
October 13, 2021

Welcome, my friends, to the ReelAbilities Film Festival LA 2021.

Only a year has passed since the last ReelAbilities Film Festival in Los Angeles, but it seems like a lifetime ago. Throughout the extraordinary experiences we have all shared – from health crises, to social crises, to climate crises – one thing has remained true: the need for Disability and Accessibility to be infused in all diversity, equity, and inclusion movements is more important now than ever.

To that end, RAFFLA 2021 continues to build on the successes of our first three years. Our film selections, from shorts to features, are as powerful in presentation as they are wide-ranging in vision. Our panels address conversations that happen far too infrequently and must be a fundamental part of today’s social discourse.

We also continue our tradition of filmmaker discussions throughout the festival, and have continued the use of “schmooze zooms” where you can have intimate small group discussions with some of the movers and shakers behind the magic that is Hollywood.

As our communities continue to grow in visibility and adaptability, ReelAbilities continues to evolve. If you are new to the ReelAbilities family: welcome. If you are a ReelAbilities veteran: welcome back. Either way, thank you for taking this journey with us, wherever it may lead.

Sincerely,

Stephen David Simon
Executive Director
ReelAbilities Film Festival is the largest film festival in the United States dedicated to promoting awareness and appreciation of the lives, stories, and artistic expressions of people with disabilities. Founded twelve years ago in New York, ReelAbilities Film Festivals are now held annually in multiple cities throughout North America.

ReelAbilities Film Festival Los Angeles is working together with the diverse and varied public of Los Angeles to gain a greater appreciation of quality cinema across abilities. We seek to engage entertainment industry executives, filmmakers, and the film-going public in a meaningful way to:

• Highlight the challenges and opportunities for artists with disabilities.
• Provide a forum for filmmakers and artists with disabilities to gather, share their experiences, and connect to a wider audience.
• Showcase technologies which make movie-going more accessible.
• Feature excellent films from around the globe that are fully inclusive and re-imagine the role of people with disabilities in film.

ReelAbilities Film Festival Los Angeles provides entertainment industry leaders the opportunity to:

• Highlight their efforts to promote an inclusive, welcoming, and diverse workforce.
• Engage with stakeholders in the community to improve the visibility and inclusion of people with disabilities.

ReelAbilities Film Festival Los Angeles is produced by the City of Los Angeles Department on Disability in partnership with the City of Los Angeles Commission on Disability and ReelAbilities North America.

This will be the fourth year of ReelAbilities Film Festival Los Angeles. Although we have worked to ensure our festival is as inclusive and accommodating as possible, we realize there is still work needed to be done to ensure a fully accessible experience for all. Please join with us in helping to achieve the vision of a city that is fully inclusive and provides everyone, regardless of ability, a sense of belonging in the City of Angels.

PANEL DISCUSSION
SPORTS AND MENTAL HEALTH: EXPANDING THE DISABILITY LENS
There has recently been increased attention given to the impact of sports on mental health. Athletes have come out publicly to share their experiences with mental health conditions and the ways in which sports have had a negative impact on them. That said, sports have also been shown to reduce stress and ease depression. This panel will explore the complex world of competition and sports and how they intersect with mental health. It will also examine the intersectionality of mental health and disability.

ARE YOU DISABLED ENOUGH?: NON-APPARENT DISABILITIES

“Not every disability is apparent and those with non-apparent disabilities struggle with different issues than those with apparent disabilities. There is a lot of stigma and judgment even within the disability community. This panel will explore what non-apparent disabilities are, and how media representation of non-apparent disabilities can help and harm individuals living with said disabilities.

RAFFLA Partner ADA Lead On Productions and Lights! Camera! Access! (LCA) proudly present this panel about Non-Apparent Disabilities in the Media.”

THAT WHICH IS POSSIBLE

A community of painters, sculptors, musicians, and writers make work at the Living Museum, an art space on the grounds of a large state-run psychiatric facility in Queens. Shot over the course of two years and structured across the arc of a day, the film observes with an intimate lens and unspools like a musical, both bracing and tender. It explores the liberation and healing that creativity can offer those drawn together by shared struggle. It points to a more humane and holistic approach to mental illness, and to the joy of transforming society itself. (Mental Illness)

RE: ReelAbilities Film Festival LA 2021

WELCOME!!

It is with great privilege to welcome you all to the 2021 City of Los Angeles Department on Disability’s 4th Annual ReelAbilities Film Festival. While these are uncertain and uncharted times, we will rise above together and conquer the challenges ahead of us all. Yes, this is the 4th year; however, it is also our 2nd Virtual ReelAbilities celebration!

In the next few days, we will witness the talents, skills, hearts, and souls of People with Disabilities as their stories are revealed. So let’s sit back and enjoy.

Lights. Camera. ACTION!

Sincerely,

Myrna G. Cabanban

FILM SELECTION COMMITTEE

ANDREA JENNINGS
Andrea Jennings has a Master of Music and specializes in Music and Entertainment Industries. She hopes to facilitate better opportunities for disabled and marginalized individuals by developing authentic content through her production company Shifting Creative Paradigms - “Leveling The Playing Field”™. As a sought-after keynote speaker, Andrea is a panelist for numerous diversity, equity, and belonging panels, where she advocates for social justice through the lens of disability culture, film, music, and art. She is the Vice-Chair of the Accessibility and Disability Commission for the City of Pasadena and serves on several advisory committees.

ENGRACIA FIGUEROA
Engracia Figueroa is a cinema aficionado who got her start on a street location of the 70’s television show The Streets of San Francisco. She has a passion for old 70mm celluloid films, Technicolor movies, musicals and old Black and White film too. After getting her start with LALIFF (Los Angeles Latino International Film Festival), she has recently been on the inaugural selection committee of RAFFLA19 and served as the Director of Community Outreach for the Garifuna Indigenous Film Festival. She is honored to serve as a Film Curator for RAFFLA21 and looks forward to “Seein’ ya at the Movies!”

SHAINA GHURAYA
Shaina jokes that she is a triple threat - she’s a wheelchair-user, Indian, and a woman. She is a writer and director for bold and quirky comedies that embrace diversity and explore intersectionality. A graduate of USC’s Film and Television production program, Shaina’s films have screened at ReelAbilities, Hollyshorts, and Slamdance. She is currently a writer on the Netflix Animation show Boons and Curses.

MARK OZDOBA
Mark Ozdoba is a writer and editor who has focused his work on the fight for disability inclusion and access, writing most recently on that subject for The Los Angeles Review of Books. He is head writer and co-producer of ADA31 Lead On, an anniversary recognition of the Americans with Disabilities Act. In addition to his work on the new documentary Lily Topples the World, he has edited web series, pilots, and films, supporting festivals such as DOC NYC, ESPN’s 30 for 30, and a variety of features including Late Night, Puzzle, The Conformist, Obvious Child, and The Spectacular Now. He has riffed some of the worst movies ever made with “TV’s Frank” Conniff, and is working on a documentary about an immigrant forced to shutter her business—before the pandemic.
STEERING COMMITTEE

DANNY WOODBURN
Danny Woodburn is a 30 year veteran actor (as seen in Seinfeld and Watchmen) and disability rights activist whose work has led to increased representation, understanding, appreciation, and opportunities for Performers with Disability (PWDs). He has had a role in every change occurring today for PWDs in Hollywood, and has worked to open doors for PWDs at 20th Century Fox, CBS, NBC, HBO, and other studios.

ALISA SCHLESINGER
Alisa Schlesinger is a founding member of ReelAbilities Film Festival Los Angeles. She serves as a Commissioner on the City of Los Angeles Commission of Disabilities. She has been an advocate for people with disabilities for over twenty-five years and is committed to expanding visibility and inclusion for people with disabilities in the entertainment industry.

JENNIFER SCHLESINGER
Jennifer Schlesinger is a founding member of ReelAbilities Los Angeles. She is the Associate VP at Alzheimer’s Los Angeles, a local non-profit committed to helping families affected by Alzheimer’s or dementia. RAFFLA 2021 will be the first time she has watched a movie since last year’s Festival—it’s been a tough year.

STEPHEN DAVID SIMON
Stephen David Simon is Executive Director of the City of Los Angeles Department on Disability, working to ensure that all City programs, services, activities, and facilities are accessible to all Angelenos. He previously served as the City’s AIDS Coordinator, responsible for development, implementation and oversight of the City’s HIV/AIDS policies and programs. He received his Juris Doctorate and Bachelors degrees at UCLA.
